

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A monitor for monitoring the operation of a scheduler for controlling the departure of data cells is provided, comprising a detector for detecting the state of an internal element of the scheduler during a test, and determining means for determining whether the scheduler is operating as intended based on the detected state of the internal element.